PNEUMONIA FATAL TO CAMP SOLDIER

First Death among Troops now here. Was Taken to Hospital.

BROTHER TO TAKE BODY

Three Hundred More Men Arrive here and Camp Becomes More Active Every Day.

Private William A. Siljander, Casual Company No. 1, 65th U. S. Engineers, a soldier in the Gettysburg Camp, died yesterday in the Chambersburg hospital from pneumonia.

Private Siljander was taken ill several days ago and on Wednesday was sent to the hospital in an automobile of the Quartermaster Detachment. He did not seem to be very ill at the time he left Gettysburg but he became very much worse soon after his arrival at the hospital and his death occurred Thursday morning. Notification was sent here and the man's relatives in Chicago were notified of his death.

A brother has telegraphed that he will come to Chambersburg to claim the body and to accompany it west for burial. But little is known about the man here. He had been in camp but a short time before he was taken ill.

More Men Arrive

This morning there arrived from Columbus Barracks thirty five more men who were assigned to their quarters at the camp.

Late this afternoon or early this evening there will arrive here a company of 250 officers and men from Camp Upton, Yaphank, Long Island. All arrangements have been perfected for caring for them in the converted mess halls.

With the arrival of the Camp Upton men there will be well onto 700 men quartered at the buildings.

No further advices have been received about other companies being sent here but they will come in from day to day in groups ranging from 25 to 250 as has been the case since the first ones reached here last week.

A number of officers have come in during the past few days. As yet the officer to command the camp has not yet been designated, so far as is known here.

Make Good Impression

The soldierly bearing of the men already in camp has been the subject of a great deal of favorable comment. The company which came here from New Mexico is composed almost entirely of men who have been in the service for a long time and they are seasoned Regulars. The men who arrived here from Allentown, after a brief stay at Camp Meade, are all of a good type, many of them college men who enlisted at the opening of the war and had been waiting for a year to be sent across with the Ambulance Corps. The Allentown troops that have not been sent to France are now all being transferred to other points.

TIME FOR FOOD SLACKERS BRIEF

Hotel and Restaurant Men in the County Must Sign within Next Ten Days.

Henry Scharf, Adams County Hotel Chairman of the United States Food Administration, has received the following communication from Howard Heinz. the food administrator for Pennsylvania:

"In your drive to secure signed Pledge Cards from all public eating places in your County who have not signed, please emphasize the fact that the rules and regulations must be complied with by all whether they sign the pledge card or not and that the signing of the card will put them in better standing with the Food Administration.

"So far as we know, all who have not signed the card are not co-operating and will be dealt with accordingly. We have authority to close up the business of the offenders, as you will note by the fact that only last week more than fifty hotels and restaurants in New York City were closed by the Food Administration because they were not complying with the rules and regulations.

"Please call our attention to any who refuse to sign. The closing date for leniency is March 31."

WILL CAMP OUT

Truck Train Men will Sleep in the Open Some Nights.

With the arrival of warmer weather it is the plan to have the men in the army truck trains sleep out of doors whenever it is impossible to make a town with a reasonable run. Two of the trains that came through here this week stopped in the mountains west of Chambersburg and camped out over night, for the reason that it would have been too great a strain on the men to make the next large town before resting. This will become quite the custom, it is said, after the weather becomes entirely settled.

$20,000 BLAZE DESTROYS HOUSE

Furniture in Fine Cottage also Lost in Night Fire on the Mountain.

UNOCCUPIED AT THE TIME

Nearby Buildings are Saved but Main Structure Burns to Ground. Some Insurance Carried.

Fire, undoubtedly of incendiary origin, completely destroyed the handsome ten-room bungalow of Mrs. Sydney Price, Baltimore, located along the Buena Vista car track only about 300 yards from the big mountain resort hotel, Wednesday night, at 11 o'clock. The complete interior furnishings, many of which were very costly, and which Mrs. Price was accustomed to leave in the bungalow the year around, were consumed by the flames. The aggregated loss will amount to about $20,000.

Caretaker W. H. Harbaugh, of the Buena Vista Hotel, first noticed the flames and spreading the alarm soon had a number of neighbors on the scene but the flames had gained too much headway for them to do much work. They, however, covered the adjoining Price cottage with water and saved it from burning. A strong wind was blowing sparks upon the second cottage and for awhile it was in much danger.

This was the first fire ever known to have happened in the Buena Vista section.

Another fire happened at Highfield Tuesday. Proprietor John Wantz, of the Highfield Hotel, was burning brush in the rear of the hotel when some sparks flew in the barn, igniting some corn fodder. The frame structure rapidly burned to the ground. Mr. Wantz's loss will amount to several hundred dollars.

Rumors have been afloat for the past several weeks to the effect that the Buena Vista Hotel will not reopen for the coming season, owing to strained conditions brought on by our entrance into the war.

Caretaker W. H. Harbaugh, of the hotel, makes a strong denial and says the rumors are founded upon no grounds whatever.

He has been assured by the owners that the popular resort will re-open as usual the middle part of June, however, under different management. The Hotel Rennert managers, of Baltimore, will assume full charge in place of former manager, A. J. Ford, of Port Deposit, Md.

ASKS HELP FOR SCHOOLS

State Board Looks to Congress to Keep Teaching Forces Intact.

The State Board of Education has adopted resolutions asking representatives in both Houses of Congress to urge the Federal Government to make special appropriations so that the teaching forces of the State schools can be kept intact during the war. The resolutions call attention to the demands of industry and express fears that the standards of to-day cannot be maintained without aid. They recite that, since the schools are styled the second line of defense, the Government "should in this crisis come to the aid of the several commonwealths".

It is further stated that "the present rate of wages in industrial and other activities is causing a heavy drain upon the schools and, unless the districts receive special help, the present standard of school efficiency cannot be maintained".

SIX NEW CASES OF SMALLPOX

Discovered in York County. Were Developed by Contact. Five in One House.

Six more cases of smallpox were discovered Thursday in York County by Medical Inspector J. S. Miller, making the total just an even dozen. The new cases are in Newberry and Fairview townships. While an active investigation of every case of skin eruption is being made, it was reported that there are no new cases in the city of York.

The new outbreak of the malady in that county is in the townships of Fairview and Newberry. In Newberry township five cases were found in the home of William Spahr, about six or seven miles west of Goldsboro, near the township line. The sixth case is in the home of William Yinger, of Fairview township, his 14 year old daughter, Mary, being the victim of the malady.

The members of the Spahr family afflicted with the disease are Mrs. William Spahr, her daughters, Ruth, 16 years old, Leona, 14 years, and sons, George, 12 years, and Clyde, 9 years. William Spahr is a brother of Howard and Nora Spahr, of near Yocumtown, who were quarantined on Tuesday at the home of their father, George Spahr, after the discovery that they were suffering from smallpox and the members of his family contracted the disease from contact with them.

The two families live only a half mile from each other and visits between them are frequent.

RULING MADE ON FARMERS' WHEAT

Adams County Residents have been Wanting Information on this Point.

INTO EFFECT ON MONDAY

Four Rules to be Observed with Regard to Grinding of Wheat, and Purchase and Sale.

A number of Adams County farmers have been asking for data on the amount of flour they may hold if it is made from wheat which they themselves have grown. In reply to this the following ruling is made public to-day to become effective on Monday, March 25th.

1. A farmer may take wheat of his own raising to the mill for grinding, in sufficient quantity to meet his household needs to September 1, 1918, and may receive its equivalent in wheat flour.

2. No farmer is permitted to make a sale of wheat flour in any quantity under penalty of the law.

3. Purchases of wheat flour by farmers are governed by the same rules as apply to purchases by the general public. Millers and retail dealers will sell wheat flour to farmers in quantity to meet household requirements for thirty days, when such wheat flour sale is accompanied by a sale in combination of an equal weight in official cereal substitutes. This sale of cereal substitutes may be waived by the miller or dealer in cases where farmers certify in writing to the previous possession of such substitutes in the quantity specified, together with an agreement to use the substitutes in equal quantity, in connection with the wheat flour for family consumption.

4. Nothing in these rules shall be construed as exempting farmers from making the Official Householder's Flour Report of flour on hand, etc.

In announcing this ruling Howard Heinz, state food administrator, says:

"There is no more loyal American than the American farmer. He desires no class recognition or class privilege. He is willing, in common with the city and town dweller, to assume the responsibilities of citizenship and desires only to share equally in its benefits. He recognizes the fact that his country is at war and that to win for the cause of freedom and democracy it must have the loyal support of every citizen, each doing his utmost to help in his own sphere of action. He has accordingly sent his sons to battle, he has bought Liberty Bonds, he has produced and will continue to produce every possible pound of food. He should know that the statement 'Food will Win the War' has no idle meaning; that any failure in the American food supply will be fraught with terrible consequences; that the Householders' Flour Reports are a necessary means by which to ascertain the truth about the actual flour supply of the Nation and how it is distributed.

"Knowing these things, and that unscrupulous and seditious persons are actually hoarding flour beyond their real needs, robbing the boys who have gone to the front, the farmer will join with all his might in helping to save by the liberal use in his family of corn meal and other cereals that may be substituted for flour as well as to produce the food we need and will see first of all that his own household is free from the guilt of hoarding either flour or wheat beyond his actual needs."

HALT GERMANY'S GREATEST DRIVE

Haig Reports that they have been Stopped inside the First Line Trenches.

FRENCH DRIVE THEM OUT

Austrians will Take Care of Russian Situation while Picked Germans Carry on Offensive.

(By Cable)

London, Mar. 22—"We hold the enemy in our battle front", Field Marshal Haig reported to-day after the first twenty four hours of the Germans' great western drive had expired.

The battle front is stationed directly behind the front line trenches so that Haig's statement is taken to mean that the onrush of the Teuton hosts has been stopped.

British military experts are confident that the drive will be permanently stopped before it reaches more serious proportions but, at the same time to-day, sounded a note of warning that the world's destiny may depend on the human wall against which Germany is hurling her picked shock troops.

With the British Armies in the Field, Mar. 22—British troops, with their customary coolness, bobbed up after the terrific German barrage of gas and high explosives, and, still wearing their masks, met the oncoming infantry. They quickly manned their machine guns and followed this with hand to hand combat. Knives and bayonets were brought into play on all sides before the line was finally cleared.

Paris, Mar. 22—French troops have repulsed the German attack over a wide front. At some points the French have driven back the enemy from advanced positions in which they had gained a temporary foothold.

Rome, Mar. 22—Fighting has increased over the entire Italian front, the War Office announced to-day.

Berlin, Mar. 22—This city received with calmness the news that the German drive on the Western Front had been started. Herr von Steiner, the Austrian war minister, who is in Berlin, is reported to have agreed that the Austrian troops shall hold the Eastern Front and at the same time furnish some commands and many guns for the great Western Front offensive. A few Bulgarian troops are also aiding the Germans on the West.

DRAFT BILL CLEARS

Most of Disputed Points are being Compromised.

(By Telegraph)

Washington, Mar. 22—The new draft bill which will come up for debate next week is being whipped into shape and the points over which there are argument are being compromised. The principal sources of dispute now will be the registered men in classes other than Class I, and the manner of taking into account the number of men who have volunteered from each district in making out the new quotas. There are few differences to be settled on these points and the bill is expected to pass without delay.

GERMANS LAUNCH TERRIFIC DRIVE

FAIL TO GAIN OBJECTIVE

Parts of Lines Bent Back were Thinly Held, and Sustaining was not Important.

British Army Headquarters in France, Mar. 22—The Germans yesterday forenoon launched a heavy attack against the British lines over a wide front in and near the Cambrai sector, and the assault bears all the earmarks of being the beginning of the enemy's much-heralded grand offensive.

Hard fighting proceeded from a point north of Lagincourt southward to Gauche Wood, just below Gouzeaucourt. The attack was preceded by a heavy bombardment from guns of all calibers, and the duel between the opposing heavy batteries rocked the countryside for hours.

The Germans have employed gas shells freely, and a constant stream of high velocity shells has been breaking with frightful concussion far back of the British lines.

The bombardment began in earnest at 5 o'clock in the morning, and about five hours later the enemy forces hurled themselves into British front line trenches north of Lagnicourt and Louveral, the latter place lying due west of Boursies.

At the same time other German forces advanced behind a smoke barrage along the ridge running northward from Gouzeaucourt. It may be said that the attack in this region was by no means unexpected by the British and that they had made great preparations to meet the onslaught.

The two vast forces have been locked in a bitter struggle over this wide front for hours. The bombardment was of a most terrific nature and finally the infantry drove forward against numerous points in the Cambrai sector. The preliminary bombardment had extended from a point below St. Quentin, north to the River Scarpe, and at last reports sanguinary fighting was in progress as far south as the region of Hargicourt and as far north as Bullecourt.

London, Mar. 22—Field Marshal Haig's report from British headquarters in France describes the German offensive as comprising an intense bombardment by the artillery and a powerful infantry attack on a front of over fifty miles. Some of the British positions were penetrated, but the German losses are declared to have been exceptionally heavy.

On no part of the long front of the attack did the Germans attain their objectives. The text of the statement under date of Thursday follows:

"At about 8 o'clock this morning after an intense bombardment of both high explosive and gas shells on our forward positions and back areas a powerful infantry attack was launched by the enemy on a front of over fifty miles, extending from the River Oise in the neighborhood of La Fere to the Sense river, about Croisilles.

"A hostile artillery demonstration has taken place on a wide front north of La Bassee Canal and in the Ypres sector.

"The attack, which for some time past was known to be in the course of preparation, has been pressed with great vigor and determination throughout the day. In the course of the fighting the enemy broke through our outpost positions and succeeded in penetrating into our battle positions in certain parts of the front.

"The attacks were delivered in large masses and have been extremely costly to the hostile troops engaged, whose losses have been exceptionally heavy.

"Severe fighting continues along the whole front. Large numbers of hostile reinforcing troops have been observed during the day moving forward behind the enemy's lines.

"Several enemy divisions, which had been especially trained for this great attack, have already been identified, including units of the guards.

"Captured maps depicting the enemy's intentions show that on no part of the long front of the attack has he attained his objective."

FOUR KILLED

Explosion on American Destroyer at Time of Collision.

Washington, Mar. 22—Explosion of a depth charge aboard the American destroyer Manley when the vessel collided with a British warship in European waters March 19, killed the American commander and three enlisted men and wounded 11 others. Both ships were damaged.

In announcing the accident the Navy Department gave no further details and withheld the location.

The destroyer was the Manley. A depth charge on the Manley exploded when the vessels met.

WOMEN TAKE PART IN THRIFT STAMP DRIVE

Women many times have been classed as the more extravagant, but the women right now in war times are proving to be the more economical and the more thrifty. In the campaign to push the sales of thrift stamps, the women of the country in many cases have not only done their own bit, but also occupied a great deal of their time inducing and convincing others of the necessity of buying the Thrift stamps with all their spare money. This daring member of the emergency drivers of Chicago has climbed far out on the ledge of this building to nail this poster in a prominent place calling upon other women to join and place their cars at the disposal of the organization to push the Thrift stamp campaign. These women are covering the city thoroughly and every passer-by is made familiar with the importance of the buying of the stamps, and they usually are convinced, for the women are determined talkers, and besides they are boosting a sale that should need no boosting.

WOOD AND BELL ARE HOME AGAIN

Two Major Generals Return from War Zone. Neither Willing to Talk.

An Atlantic Port, Mar. 22—Major General Leonard Wood and Major General J. Franklin Bell, commanders, respectively, of the 89th and 77th Divisions of the National Army, arrived here yesterday from France on a French steamship.

General Wood went abroad last December to study war problems at first hand. Late in January, while he, with 20 or 30 other French and American officers, was watching the firing from a trench mortar in the training camp, a shell exploded, killing some of the men with him and wounding others. A fragment of shrapnel struck General Wood in the arm, which was ripped open from elbow to armpit. It was only a few weeks ago that he left a hospital, after convalescing from this wound.

General Bell also arrived in France in December and has been visiting the battlefront and training camps.

On the same ship with Generals Wood and Bell was Count Charles de Chambrun, who has come to America to serve as counsellor of the French Embassy, a position which he held about 13 years ago. He is a direct descendant of Lafayette and a brother of Marquis de Chambrun, who was a member of the French mission which Marshal Joffre headed in this country.

Major General Wood said he had fully recovered from his wound. He refused to discuss conditions on the American front.

Major General Bell also declined to talk on the subject other than to say that "the American troops are in splendid condition."

EXIT THE CABARET

Drastic Order Issued in Philadelphia to Stop the Shows.

Philadelphia, Mar. 22—Dancing and cabaret entertainment in places in Philadelphia where liquor is sold will no longer be permitted. This drastic order was issued by Judges Shoemaker and Wessels sitting as the license court, an annual institution in this city. The order applies to all hotels, cafes and saloons and hundreds of places which reaped a harvest from the dancing feature of their establishments will be hard hit.

The court decided that a reasonable use of instrumental music in public licensed places is not unlawful.

AMERICAN ARMY MEN SKEPTICAL

Doubt that this is Germany's Grand Offensive. Really Glad if it is.

BELIEVE IT CAMOUFLAGE

Look to Real Drive at Some Other Point. If Real Offensive it is Doomed to Defeat.

Washington, Mar. 22—Even word from London that the drive launched by the Germans on the west front is on a larger scale than any undertaken there since the war began has failed to convince American military observers that the long-heralded German grand offensive is at hand. They are waiting for the full scope of the enemy action against both British and French fronts to be made clear, and still believe that the logic of the situation points away from a German offensive in the west at this time.

There was a distinct feeling that tumult of the German guns might cloak some other purpose than to commit the issue of the war to desperate onslaughts against the all but impregnable Allied lines in the west. Supreme confidence in the power of those lines to resist the shock characterized the expressions of all officials here.

Some high army officers, heretofore confident that the German position on all fronts made a defensive attitude in the west almost mandatory, hailed with eagerness the possibility that a great thrust at Paris or the Channel ports had been actually set in motion. They believed only some internal pressure that would not brook wise counsel could force the General Staff to risk such a venture. They believed, too, that a German assault in the west now would bring ultimate triumph of the Allied cause closer because their confidence in the resisting power of the Allied armies is unshakable.

Believes Defeat Certain

"If this is in fact a German drive", said one general officer, "I will look upon it as the most hopeful sign in the war thus far. Defeat of the movement is certain.

"But I cannot believe that it is a real drive. Every requirement of reason would direct the Germans to press their exploitation of Russia's resources and Russia's man power to the limit while they held the west front locked against our efforts."

Reports from Holland that a peace offer had been made semi-officially to the Entente by Germany caught immediate attention. There was nothing at the State Department to confirm this report, but some observers saw the possibility that the menace of the German guns had been turned loose to play a thundering prelude to such an offer for effect upon the French and British people.

The purpose might be, it was said, to over-awe European neutrals, or it might be that realization that the submarine campaign had failed to block the movement of American troops to France led to resort to a desperate effort to reach the Channel ports.

From a purely military standpoint, the launching of an offensive this early in the year is an innovation in the war. Experience would indicate that the ground is as yet too soft with the winter rains for extensive troop and transport movements necessitated in pressing home a great thrust. The spring appears to be early in Europe, however, and the German experts have certainly gauged every factor before undertaking extensive operations. It may well be that prolonged bombardment, covering many days of constant gunfire will follow the initial rush in the Cambrai sector, paving the way for greater efforts by the infantry later.

UNCLE SAM WILL PAY

For Transportation of Bodies of Soldiers Killed Abroad.

Washington, Mar. 22—An amendment to the Army regulations as to burial of members of the military forces, announced yesterday provides transportation and burial at government expense for all soldiers who die within the United States. The regulations formerly provided that the government should bear the expense of officers' funerals only.

American soldiers and sailors held by the enemy as war prisoners are excepted from provisions of the soldiers' insurance law requiring their signatures to applications for policies in a Senate resolution adopted by the House. The laws as passed required that applications made out by beneficiaries should be countersigned by the men insured.

JAPAN WOULD GIVE TONS OF SHIPPING

Proposal Made to United States in Spite of Disagreement over Siberia.

Washington, Mar. 22—Japan has offered this country 150,000 tons of shipping in an effort to re-open the long-blocked negotiations started last summer by Viscount Ishii.

The fact that the offer was made was confirmed at the War Trade Board last night. It is admitted that in return Japan seeks certain concessions, just as last summer she sought steel from America in return for tonnage. What these concessions are officials for the present will not indicate.

The significance of the offer, officials say, lies in the fact that it is made notwithstanding the sharp disagreement of the United States with Japan's plans for Siberian intervention. Viscount Ishii is expected here as Japanese ambassador within a month.

With his arrival further efforts to bring the United States and Japan into closer co-operation are confidently expected. The offer now made is believed to pertain to new ships which Japan is building.

Officials who discussed the new offer, while greeting it as a healthy sign of Japan's desire to maintain the friendliest relations, nevertheless made it plain that the offer would find the United States, backed by the other Allies, more in a mood to insist that Japan be more generous with her ships.

FOR $2.50 WHEAT

Victory Won by Advocates of that Figure.

Washington, Mar. 22—The Agricultural Appropriation Bill, with the Gore amendment increasing the 1918 government guaranteed wheat price to $2.50 was passed late yesterday by the Senate. It now goes to conference between the two houses where there will be another fight over the wheat price.

The wheat price amendment was adopted 49 to 18 after five days' discussion in which its advocates urged the necessity of stimulating production, and criticised government price-fixing. The bill, carrying appropriations of $28,000,000, was passed without a roll call, the principal fight being centered on the wheat provision.

OBJECTORS ASSIGNED

To be Placed in Medical, Quartermaster and Engineering Corps.

Washington, Mar. 22—An executive order issued by President Wilson provides that all conscientious objectors to the selective draft shall be given non-combatant service. The non-combatant branches outlined by the President include the Medical Corps, Quartermaster Corps and the Engineer Service.

The order provides that as far as may be feasible assignmens of objectors to non-combatant service will be restricted to the several detachments and units of the Medical Department, unless request is made for assignment to other branches of non-combatant service.

"God willing, we will also overcome the enemy in the west and clear the way to a general peace."

TEN BIG CARGO SHIPS

Carriers the Largest in American Merchant Marine.

Washington, Mar. 22—Construction of ten ships of 15,000 tons each, to be the biggest cargo carriers in the American merchant marine, has been recommended by Chairman Hurley, of the Shipping Board, and work on the designs was begun yesterday.

Secretary Redfield recently suggested that the board begin building larger ships, now that the construction of smaller vessels is under way satisfactorily. Craft of the new design probably will be built in some of the old yards which are equipped for building large vessels for the Navy. They cannot be laid down for several months.

One advantage of the big ships will be a great increase in carrying capacity, without corresponding increase in the crews.

A typical "desert rat," Ward seeks only to wander on the vast stretches of the Mojave with his burro, he declared. The guardians will look after his business affairs.

TO MAKE CORN FLOUR

A corn flour products mill, to supply the substitutes for flour needed in that community, is now being installed by the Lakeview Milling Company, of which Hayes Pensinger is president. The plant will be of such capacity as to supply the immediate and future demands made for wheat substitutes. A number of the large mills throughout the eastern states are making similar preparations and a few of the larger concerns will abolish entirely the grinding of flour. The Lakeview mill is the first in the Cumberland Valley to take the necessary steps to supply the substitutes.

The corn products plant at the Chambersburg mill will be of forty five barrel capacity. Its output will consist of seventy five per cent corn meal and twenty five per cent corn flour. The machinery required is manufactured by the Wolf Company and will be in operation on or before April 1. This patriotic move by the Lakeview mill will be received with much gratification by the people of that community who have found it difficult to secure the needed substitutes. It is the purpose of the company to use only the best of yellow corn, and western white and yellow kiln corn in the manufacture of the food products.

SUSPEND BOND INTEREST

The Chambersburg & Shippensburg Railway Company makes the announcement that despite the increased fares it is compelled to adopt a suspension of payment of interest on all bonds, due April 1.

The company gives several reasons for this default. The weather conditions during the winter necessitated heavy expenditures of money to clear the track and roadway of snow and ice, and operation through parts of January and February was at a standstill. The increased cost of labor, repairs and supplies coupled with a decreased number of patrons has more than off-set the returns from increased rates adopted in November, thus greatly reducing the net earnings. The track and roadway will need some repairs during the spring months, but in general is in very good condition. The rolling stock is not in good condition and considerable money will necessarily have to be expended on the cars to prepare for the heavier traffic during the summer. Floods during the early spring damaged the park and equipment and money must be expended to make repairs in order that the park be made attractive during the summer. Taking all these troubles in a lump a deficiency, out of $31,369.02 annual receipts, of $235.89 shows on the books.

MARRIES AN INDIAN

Andrew Sylvester Condon, an Indian, journeyed from Cherry Creek, South Dakota, to Harrisburg, where he met Jessie Ann McCoy, of Carlisle, and together they procured a marriage license at the Dauphin county court house. Condon is a ranchman on a South Dakota farm, and received his education at the Carlisle Indian School. While a student in Carlisle he met Miss McCoy, who was formerly a waitress in a Carlisle restaurant. She was divorced last October, obtaining a decree from the Franklin county courts. Miss McCoy is a daughter of John G. McCoy, for years a Chambersburg salesman of trees, and she was recently divorced by Alex Grove.

DON'T WANT VICTORY BREAD

The driver of a Chambersburg baker's wagon came across a somewhat amusing experience in Greencastle one day this week. Upon asking a certain house-keeper if she needed bread, her reply was that she would take three loaves, as she had 27 already in her home, and desired to store away as much wheat bread as possible before the Victory brand made its appearance. Inasmuch, as she had been buying this kind of bread for some time past, the joke was too good to keep.

FLOODED WITH POTATOES

Waynesboro is being flooded with potatoes. Farmers from all parts of the Blue Ridge mountains and from Frederick and Washington counties, Maryland, and Adams County are hauling wagonloads of the tubers to that town and making a house-to-house canvass, endeavoring to sell them. Wednesday there were five wagons loaded with potatoes on one street, the potatoes selling at $1 per bushel.

CUMBERLAND CO.

CLAIM FOR $625 DAMAGES

Claiming negligence, S. H. Jackson and son, of Carlisle, have filed a damage action for $625 against the Cumberland Valley Railroad Company as the result of an accident which occurred last November when the delivery truck of the concern became stalled on the track and was struck and demolished by a locomotive. The plaintiff claims that the engineer had a chance to stop the train, but did not do so.

LONG-CONTESTED CASE ENDED

That litigation should have an end when no further ends of justice could be served by continuing the hearings, is the outstanding feature of an opinion sent to Carlisle by Judge W. Rush Gillan, of Franklin county, in the case of S. B. Leach, a lower end manufacturer, against the Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Pittsburgh Railroad Company. This case has been tried four times in the Carlisle courts and has gone to higher tribunals on appeals, Leach winning various sums as damages for land taken under the right of eminent domain. He was awarded $2,500 by a jury in the February term of court and the railroad company had asked for a new trial and judgment n. o. v.

BURGESS FILES DEFENSE

In an answer filed through his attorneys, John J. Milleisen, Burgess and a coal dealer of Mechanicsburg, denies that he assaulted William C. Templin, an aged resident of that town, in a dispute over the delivery of a ton of coal during the cold weather in the latter part of February. Templin filed an action asking $1,000 damages. According to his statement, the borough officials had no coal to give Templin when the latter applied and on his explanation the other became abusive and finally made an attack on Milleisen, which, he says, he merely warded off.

PERSHING HAS BIG GUNS BUILT IN U. S.

War Office Reveals Huge Yankee Made Rifles Are Now in Action.

American built ordnance of the latest type and heaviest caliber—10 inch, 12 inch, and 14 inch rifles—are in service on the sector of the western front held by the American army and on the Italian front, it was learned at the war department. The general belief has been that few American heavy guns were in Europe.

The guns sent to Italy include a number of 14-inch rifles, both of 45 and 50 caliber. The former was considered the most powerful naval weapon in existence until the commissioning of the British battleships of the Queen Elizabeth class with 15-inch guns. American experts still believe the 14-inch 50-caliber rifle is harder hitting and more accurate even than the larger weapon.

Reports from Italy say the results achieved by the heavy American ordnance already have elicited expressions of admiration from the Italian gunners.

In addition to heavy naval ordnance, General Pershing has received a number of reserve 12-inch rifles designed originally for coast defense work. Mounted on specially designed carriages, they are now located along the American sector.

These pieces have an estimated range of 17 miles. The 14-inch gun has a proportionately greater range. Larger naval guns are now being built, as future American battleships are to have 16-inch guns of both 45 and 50 caliber.

Freezing to Death.

Many a traveler has frozen to death while asleep. As recent scientific experiments have shown, the body's capacity to regulate temperature is diminished through sleep. This appears to apply both to heat and cold. A healthy man's nervous and muscular activity is reduced to the natural minimum when he falls asleep, and it is then that his temperature falls to its lowest point.

Danger of Overconfidence.

No human attribute is as dangerous to its possessor and to others as overconfidence. Inefficiency, even, isn't as apt to provoke disaster. My patience is small with those who claim that success merely depends on a man's confidence in himself. Self-confidence alone never won any of the battles of life.—Exchange.

AMBULANCE WORK FULL OF THRILLS

Sixth Sense Warns Driver of Perils Ahead.

NIGHT DRIVING IS EXCITING

Red Cross Worker Just Back From France Tells Some Thrilling Tales of His Experiences There—Narrow Escape From Certain Death—Attacked by German Airplane on First Day Driving an Ambulance.

"Ambulance drivers develop a sort of sixth sense," said Herman More, a Red Cross ambulance driver, just back from France.

"We have to drive in the darkness, of course. There can be no lights anywhere, especially not on the car, in which we carry the wounded.

"I remember one night I was coming back to the post from the third line trenches with three wounded men in my car. The road wound up the mountain side, through thick trees, to the post, which was in the grounds of what formerly was a chateau.

"The road turned suddenly at right angles. Through the trees I could vaguely see two openings. I thought I remembered the road, so I turned to the left. I crept along very slowly, when suddenly that sixth sense told me something was wrong. I stopped the car and went around to the front. I started to step in front of the car when my foot went down. I caught myself, and went back to the seat. I backed carefully around and followed the other road. In the morning I went out to see where I had been the night before, and found that the first road was simply the clearing where an old summer house had been. If I had gone one foot further, the car would have gone hurtling over the precipice, crashing on the roofs of a little village below.

"My sixth sense saved me from certain death.

Thrills of Night Driving.

"Night driving never loses its thrills.

"The mountain roads in France are winding and dangerous. I remember one night I was crawling up a winding road in pitchy darkness. Suddenly I heard a roaring like ten express trains rattling down upon me. I knew a battery was coming down as they often do, on the run.

"In the car was one man who was close to death. A jolt might kill him.

"So I hugged the right of the road, and waited. Like a cyclone that mass of horses and guns rushed down upon me. I knew they could not see me, and I feared for the life of the man in the ambulance.

"But just before they reached me, the officer in charge evidently sensed that I was there, and wheeled his horse right in front of my car. Then the others were upon us, but just as they reached us the first horses swerved out of the way with a wild crash. The others followed suit, and almost before I could breathe they were gone. Half an hour later I reached the post, and the wounded men were all saved.

Exciting First Day.

"My first day driving a Red Cross ambulance in France was most exciting.

"I had to drive six miles to Point Suippe. It was in the open, and I noticed the planes whirring everywhere in the sky above my head.

"I finally reached my destination, and drew up under a tree to read. Suddenly I heard the pop-pop-popping all around me. Little clouds of dust spit up near the wheels. A cross flew to pieces in a graveyard beyond the trees. I heard a yell, and a man a few feet away doubled up and went down. Then I looked and saw a German plane was firing on me.

"It was over in a few minutes, as they dared not stay long. I hurriedly backed the car up to the man, and took my first case back to the post.

"I said nothing about this experience for a few days, because the other fellows had filled me so full of tales of horrible experiences that I thought it was just a part of the day's work. Later I learned that it was quite a novel experience to be attacked by a German plane."

Muscular Activity and Heat.

Owls and other birds which are active at night show a rise of temperature during the hours of darkness and a fall during the day. This is a result of the well-known fact that muscular activity means an increased production of heat.

A Physician's Treatment For Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis

Simply obtain a small jar of Forkola Jelly—all good druggists have it, and allow about one-quarter of a teaspoonful to slowly melt in your mouth. In a few minutes a gentle glow will be felt and all that hard choking, clogging matter will be easily coughed up and expelled. A short but steady treatment for a week or 10 days will rid you of disgusting catarrh forever.

Deafness is often caused by catarrh and sufferers are advised to insert a small piece of Forkola Jelly on a piece of absorbent cotton into the ear. Do this at bedtime and see how a few nights' treatment will relieve you.

There's nothing that will so quickly give relief to catarrh sufferers as Bacorn's Forkola Jelly. Every druggist in this country guarantees it on the money back if dissatisfied plan. Peoples Drug Store can supply you.

SUFFERED 15 YEARS WITH A DISORDERED STOMACH AND NERVOUSNESS

Tonall only Medicine which Gave Him Relief.

"When I look back at the suffering that I went through during those awful years I suffered with a disordered stomach and nervousness, it gives me horrors," says Mr. C. Burkholder, of 713 Cumberland street, Lebanon, Pa. "I was practically a wreck and I never expected to feel again as I do to-day. I tried remedy after remedy, but none of them did me any good. I was steadily growing worse; I could not sleep and I could not rest. I had made up my mind my health was gone for fair, but reading so much in the paper about Tonall and the different herbs, roots and barks it contained I decided as a last resort to give it a trial. I am growing better every day. I am much stronger, appetite good, bowels regular, am gaining weight and working every day at the age of sixty-eight years."

The above testimony was given January 14, 1918.

Most Important Part of Tree.

Many regard the roots of a tree as its most important part but this is not the case. The top or crown is of major importance for there the processes of reproduction take place and there the digestion of its food takes place. The crown contains the lungs and stomach of the tree.

Advance the Result of Experience.

Benny's Quest

By VICTORIA LEE

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

"And it is so lonely!" mourned Miss Huldah Morse, "and if it wasn't for dear little Benny here I should fairly die of ennui."

"Dear little Benny," inspecting a toy whistle the lady bountiful speaker had just brought him, pricked up his ears, came up to Miss Morse, kissed her on the cheek and said expansively: "Wish I lived with you all the time! Everybody says you're the good lady, and it makes me proud to tell them I know you bestest!"

"You sweet little cherub!" praised Miss Morse, with true affection for the little fellow. "Yes, Mrs. Woods, it's dreadfully lonesome. I am really thinking of selling the place and boarding."

"Too bad, Huldah," spoke Mrs. Woods, "what you need is a husband."

Miss Morse flushed and fluttered, murmured something about being "fated for a single life," and "no one wanting her." Hers was a gentle, affectionate nature, and she had often wished it had been her part to have met some loving life partner upon whom she might lavish care and tenderness. Love had not come her way.

Bennie lived with his aunt, who had several children of her own. When Benny's mother died, Mr. Rankin had left the child in her care. He was a traveling man and only saw Benny when he returned from his long business trips. Miss Morse had never met him, but his sister had told him of the strong, fond companionship of the twain.

"Guess I'll get right at it," soliloquized Benny as he left the house, ignored his playmates and proceeded several squares, serious faced, thoughtful and on the keen lookout. He finally hailed a portly, contented looking gentleman sauntering along the street.

"Mister," spoke Bennie, satisfied with his appearance, "do you want to be a husband?"

"Do I—what?" queried Bennie's victim, with a stare.

"Yes, sir, I am looking for a husband for a very beautiful lady."

"Sorry, little man," smiled the gentleman, "but I'm a husband already."

"OOh!" muttered Bennie disconsolately. Then he came across a second object of interest, lounging outside of a store. Bennie began his stereotyped inquisition, but paused in the middle of his first query.

"No, you won't do," he observed, half to himself. "You've got a mussed up collar and you don't look clean, and Miss Morse is neat," and left the man in a maze of mystery.

Bennie returned home, weary and disappointed. "I haven't found any husband yet," he ruminated, "but tomorrow I'll go down to the depot, where there's crowds sometimes, and pick one out."

But Bennie was not destined to fulfill his mission. He awoke the next morning in a weak and fevered condition. At noon Mrs. Woods sent for a physician, who announced that Bennie had symptoms of an infectious disease.

"You must allow me to remove Bennie to my home," insisted Miss Morse. "You mustn't risk your own children, Mrs. Woods."

So the loving two were practically quarantined. Tender was the care of Miss Morse through strenuous weeks of nursing. Glorious was the career of little Bennie when days of convalescence arrived. With them came his father, and his grateful expressions made Miss Morse feel that her ministrations had been worth while.

"Papa," spoke the little fellow one day, when they were alone in a room, "I can't get down town for a week yet, the doctor says."

"Not alone, Bennie," answered Mr. Rankin.

"Then maybe you can do something for me—something I didn't finish when I was taken sick."

"What was that, Bennie?"

"I was to have found a husband for Miss Morse."

Mr. Rankin looked grave, fearing the fever was coming on again. Then he smiled broadly, as Bennie explained.

"But how do you know Miss Morse really wants a husband?" he questioned.

"Oh, she got red in the face, and looked beautifuller than ever, and said no one would care for her when Aunty said she needed a husband."

"I wonder," said Mr. Rankin, whimsically, yet half in earnest. "I wonder if I would do."

"H'm!"

Miss Morse in the next room, an unwilling eavesdropper, apprized her guests of her undesirable proximity.

"Oh, papa, if you would do!—wouldn't that be famous! And we could both live here! And Miss Morse makes such fine cakes and jellies!"

Arthur Rankin arose, a sudden impulse swaying him. He approached the doorway of the next apartment. Miss Morse sat pretending to read a book, but her face was red and she looked truly beautiful.

"Miss Morse," he spoke earnestly, "we need not feel embarrassed over a strained position. You must have overheard Bennie. May I consider myself an eligible candidate of his quest?" and quick-witted Bennie, a few minutes later catching the echo of a kiss, warbled forth hilariously:

"There, that's off my mind, anyway!"
